

Junior President Project

Theme: 'It's OK to ask for help!'

Organization: Magnus Veteran's Foundation-focusing on the social pillar. Helping families and those who go to war, as well as their community, heal together.

Why: According to RAND Research (2016), of 2.8 million service members who have been deployed, 48% experience strains in family life, 47% feel sudden outbursts of anger, 44% have difficulty adjusting to civilian life, 5-39% have issues with alcohol dependence, 19-23% have a traumatic brain injury, 13-20% experience post-traumatic-stress disorder, and 10-15% experience depression.

They need a support system (their family and community) to get to engage in activities that bring everyone together to enjoy fun, stress free events.

What is Needed: Money to continue to provide funds to Magnus Veteran's Foundation to be able to continue to offer programs and events for veterans and their families and friends to attend together. These additional programs will allow continued healing for veterans and their families, as they all work together to support each other.

Natalie Ketz,
Honorary Junior President

shutterstock.com · 1115204798

